ENGINE'S CREW KILLED WHEN TRAINS CRASH

Three Men on West-bound
Shuttle Mail Train Meet
Instant Death Today.

COLLIDE HEAD-ON

Four Others Are Injured In Cleveland Wreck.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—Three men, composing the crew of a westbound locomotive to Linn-dale, were killed and four others were injured here early today when two shuttle mail trains crashed head-on on the New York Central right-of-way beneath the Fulton road bridge.

The dead are: Henry Sprouse, 74, engineer; Charles Graf, fireman, and Jerry Dickson, 43, conductor.

The injured are: Frank McCarthy, 58, engineer of the eastbound locomotive; Clarence Sheffield, 35, a fireman of the eastbound engine; William F. Dee, flagman of the westbound train, and Thomas Henahan, flagman of the eastbound train.

The accident occurred, according to Henahan, just after the eastbound train had rounded the curve at the Leisy brewery.

SAW HEADLIGHT

"We saw the headlight of the approaching train," Henahan said. "But it looked like it was on the straight track. It wasn't until we were startled out that we found out that the approaching train was on our track too. It was too late then."

The two locomotives crashed with a terrific impact.

Railroad officials arrived at the scene shortly after the accident to conduct an investigation to determine the responsibility for the crash. Dickson was preparing to leap when the engines crashed, it was said. His body was caught between the wall of the cab and the bulkhead of the tender. Rescuers worked for more than two hours before they were able to extricate it from the tangled wreckage of iron.

Sprouse and Graf were instantly killed. Their bodies were found lying on the floor of their engine cab. McCarthy was badly burned by a heavy spray of scalding water which gushed forth as the boiler of his locomotive burst. His condition was reported as critical this morning. Sheffield was also seriously scalded.

Two operators, who handled the messages for the operations of the two locomotives, were being grilled closely, it was learned. A confusion of messages between the two operators, it was believed, may have been responsible for the fact that both trains were running on the "lead" switch track.

TO MAKE REPORT

Official report of the accident will be made to the Big Four Divisional headquarters at Cincinnati by J. S. Bell, Union terminal area superintendent. All employees who may have been connected with the accident in any way were being questioned.

Death of the three members of the west bound shuttle train, according to Coroner A. J. Pearce who examined the bodies, was due to scalding. Formal inquest into the deaths will not be made, Coroner Pearce said.

The official list of dead follows: Henry A. Sprouse, 64, fireman on the westbound train; Jerry Dixon, 43, conductor on the westbound train; Charles Graf, 65, brakeman on the westbound train.

The injured are: Frank McCarthy, 42, engineer of the westbound train; Clarence Sheffield, 25, fireman on the eastbound train; William F. Dee, 43, brakeman on the eastbound train; Thomas Henahan, 58, engineer of the eastbound train.

FEDERALS GAIN Insurrectionists Fail To Take Railroad Town.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 17.—With 30 Brazilian warships, including auxiliary cruisers and submarines, steaming northward to institute a rigorous blockade of the rebel states of Pernambuco, Parahyba and Rio Grande do Norte, an official government communique today claimed gradual breakdown of the insurrectionists' morale in the state of Minas Geraes.

Recapture of the cities of Santa Rita, Jacutinga, Guaranesia and Guaxupe in this state were claimed. The rebels are retreating northward toward Imuzeiro under federal fire, the communique said.

HUNDREDS CAPTURED
From Juiz De Fora, federal headquarters in Minas Geraes, reports stated hundreds of insurrectionists had been captured during the last 24 hours. Most of the rebels were hungry and dispirited, and gave in without serious opposition.

Civilians arriving at Bello Horizonte from various parts of Minas Geraes declared that sentiment against the rebellion was growing throughout the state.

Meanwhile, fighting continued along the Sao Paulo-Parana frontier, the rebels failing in repeated efforts to capture Itarare, important railway center. Several hundred rebels were reported killed and injured in this locality.

MARINES MARCH

Marines staged a parade in Sao Paulo city, the population greeting the turnout with wild enthusiasm. Enlistments of reservists continues in Bahia and Para.

According to the Brazilian press, Great Britain has signified its support of the federal government by permitting sale of arms and ammunition to the federals, while refusing such sales to the rebel forces.

Another Former Sweetheart Is Brought In Case.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Skyscraper police patrolled the roofs of 50th st., buildings today to frustrate a reported new attempt on the life of Jack Diamond, rallying slowly in Polyclinic hospital from the gang gang's fury of last Sunday.

Uniformed men and detectives were put on guard at the hospital after the authorities heard reports the gangster's life was in jeopardy from a daring plan to finish the deed.

Two detectives were stationed on the roof of the nurses' home on 8th ave., from which it would be possible to reach Diamond's third-floor room by a ladder.

Another policeman was stationed at the hospital window, and one beside his bed. All windows in his room were screened with heavy wire lattice.

In all, 15 policemen were in or near the hospital on special duty throughout the night. These precautions were taken when cognizance finally was taken of the story of a watchman at Madison Square Garden, the day after the raid on the hotel Monticello.

This watchman told how he had been approached Sunday night, about twelve hours after the shooting by two men who represented themselves as photographers and offered him $25 to allow them to take a picture from a 50th st. escape.

The offer was refused when the watchman observed that they carried a violin case, such as has been used before to conceal shot-guns.

Diamond, with four gang bullets still in his body, was unaware of these efforts to save him from his designing enemies.

He was improving steadily today.

What detectives were not guarding at the sickbed and vicinity were seeking a new figure catapulted into the case already congested with a hundred theories and a thousand underworld names.

The new figure is another girl, reported another sweetheart of the picturesque Diamond. She is Grace Carroll, who preceded the red-headed, petulant Marion Roberts in Diamond's affections.

She was a showgirl in the Holts Totsy club that Diamond owned.

GAS EXPLOSION INJURES MANY IN CALIFORNIA

33 Workers Taken To Hospital After Garment Building Is Wrecked.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 17.—A terrific gas explosion today wrecked the fourth floor of the Garment Capitol Building at Eighth and Santee streets in the heart of the industrial district, injuring 33 persons and shaking the adjacent business district.

Seven nearby buildings were damaged and hundreds of thousands of dollars damage was done. There are 24 clothing factories in the 12-story Garment Capitol building, and several hundred workers, men and women, were hurled about in their loft rooms by the blast.

Every ambulance in the city was summoned and many private automobiles were commandeered by police to carry injured persons to the hospital.

The morning shift has just begun work when the blast occurred. Besides those injured by flying debris, hurled against machinery and scorched by the flames, scores of others suffered concussion shocks, according to medical attendants.

FEARED FLAMES

Firemen said had flames burst out following the explosion, the casualty list would have been terrific in the crowded loft rooms.

Five hundred policemen, arriving in speed cars, formed a cord around the wrecked district driving back thousands of curious persons who sought to invade the area.

Plate glass windows were shattered for many blocks around and pedestrians were endangered by the collapse of several huge electrical signs, which were torn from nearby buildings.

An unidentified woman crossing the street more than a block from the Garment Capitol Building was probably fatally injured when she was struck by a heavy piece of glass.

Eyewitnesses said a sheet of flame bathed the street facade of the building as the blast rocked it. At Eighth and Los Angeles streets, half a block from the explosion, cogwheels and small springs from a complicated mechanism clattered to the pavement.

STRICT ARSON

According to Fire Inspectors Wolfe and Johnson of the arson squad the mechanism may have been parts of an infernal machine. The inspectors added they were investigating a theory that the building was bombed by disgruntled garment workers, who recently went out on strike.

They declared police have received numerous calls within the past week for protection of workers in the building. The calls came from the strike breakers, they said.

THINK VILLAGE THEFTS CLEARED

Roscoe officials believe thefts at the Clarkburg Motor Sales Co. last August and at the Evans Hardware Co. of Kingston in July have been cleared up through the arrest of Robert Allen and Joseph A. During the group singing, Miss Caroline Herrmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Herrmann, sang a number which was thoroughly enjoyed by the members.

Labor Demands 2.75 Beer Law

Vote of Feredation in Convention Today Is Unanimous, Report Says.

REPEAL OUSTED

Speaker Predicts Sentiment
Is Now Changing.

Staff Correspondent.

CONVENTION HALL, BOSTON, Oct. 17.—With surprising speed, the American Federation of Labor convention today approved the recommendation of the executive committee for modification of the Volstead act to permit 2.75 per cent beer.

The resolution which called for repeal of the Volstead act was voted down by the convention with only slight discussion on the floor. The resolution calling for repeal of the 18th amendment was also voted down with only a few negative votes.

Delegate Flore, president of the hotel employees union, one of the sponsors of the resolution, spoke from the floor in favor of the repeal proposal.

He predicted that in a few years the eighteenth amendment would be repealed "as public sentiment is changing."

"The present disgraceful conditions existing under the prohibition amendment cannot continue," said Flore.

Flore asserted that while "the convention was afraid now to take action on repeal" he believed that next year the labor representative would be forced to "face the facts."

The council's report adopted by the convention read in part as follows:

"The American Federation of Labor has repeatedly set forth in several conventions of the American Federation of Labor its attitude toward the failure of the Volstead act to promote true temperance. The developments of the last year, as shown in the evil social conditions which have followed failure of the enforcement of the Volstead act, have confirmed the position heretofore taken by the American Federation of Labor in favor of the modification of this act so as to provide for the manufacture, sale and distribution of beer containing 2.75 per cent alcohol by weight.

PICKAWAY CLUB PLANS BARBECUE

Mock Campaign Talks Feature Lutheran Meet

Campaign speeches filled the air at the meeting of the Lutheran Brotherhood Thursday when the members engaged in a campaign speech contest.

Elmer E. Wolf, Democratic candidate for sheriff was the first speaker and opened the meeting with a fiery, earnest plea for the election of a man that will fulfill the duties of the office and enforce the laws. Mr. Wolf laid emphasis on the reasons for his election and with his platform, strictly law enforcement and order, felt sure of victory.

Wolf was followed by the independent candidate, Wayne Hoover, who gave all the reasons why an independent should be elected over the Democratic and Republican candidates.

Then came the turn of the trumpets and the beating of the drums, when part of the American Legion Drum Corps led the way for the third candidate for sheriff, George C. Griffith. George solemnly tossed his hat in the ring and began his campaign speech. Griffith, a born speaker, gave the audience plenty of reasons why he should be elected and added much humor to his talk.

The candidates for Representative then took the platform with Karl Herrmann, Republican, the first speaker. He told of his qualifications for the office and promised to fulfill every wish of his constituents. Clyde Leist, Democratic candidate followed and he, too, was eager to do all that his electors asked of him and thoroughly explained why he was the better candidate.

Fulton Cryder, Republican candidate for commissioner, talked to the audience through station "OBC" and emphatically stressed the points for his election and his desire to curtail the unnecessary expenses that are so prevalent in the present administration. After his speech he distributed stogies to the Republicans.

Lee Shaner, Democratic candidate for Commissioner, did not arrive at the meeting to make his speech so lost out on the vote.

After the speeches a vote was taken on the best campaign speech and Elmer Wolfe was the winner, received more than half the votes cast.

The lunch committee, Charles Beck, chairman, served sandwiches, pickles and coffee before the speech-making started.

MERCURY GOES FROM 60 MARK LESS THAN 45

Fine Rainfall Here For Four Hours Is First In Several Weeks' Time.

NORTH WEST HIT

Mississippi Farmers Fear For Crop Harvest.

The first cool weather of the fall season swept over Circleville and Pickaway-co Friday when temperature which at 6 a. m. was 60 had dropped to 45 degrees at noon and was gradually going down early in the afternoon according to Dr. H. R. Clark, county weather observer. Rain which started to fall at shortly before 8 a. m. Friday, continued until almost noon drenching the city and county with the first good rain in several weeks.

A continued drop in temperature until the freezing point is reached was predicted by weather authorities through central Ohio.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Temperatures in the sixties dropped to below the freezing point here late Thursday and early Friday with snow expected at any time, according to weathermen. Rainstorms were turned to sleet and highways and roads were glazed with ice.

NORTHWEST HIT

The storm came out of the northwest, first striking the Rocky Mountain states, then falling over the upper Mississippi valley. Chicago's thermometer dropped 10 degrees then fell until near the freezing point during Thursday. Canada reports blizzard-blocked highways in numerous cities where a foot and one-half of snow fell. According to late news dispatches the cold is expected to last for three days.

The snow fell on Minnesota, melting then when temperatures again fell covering the streets with ice.

Valparaiso, Ind., reports several hours of heavy rains which flooded streets in the city. Automobiles were unable to move on account of the floods.

The central Mississippi valley states were also struck. Farmers in the storm-ridden areas were fearful of their crops which have not yet been harvested.

By International News Service
The promised 'cold wave' struck Ohio today, calling out, topcoats, in some places overcoats, and other warm wearing apparel, as the mercury took a toboggan ride down to the 45-degree mark, the lowest of the year so far.

It's honest and truly real football weather, in contrast to the excellent baseball temperatures which prevailed earlier in the week.

Southern Ohio cities were somewhat warmer with various cities reporting readings of 60 and 62 degrees. The cold weather is general throughout the state, officials of the United States weather bureau at Columbus said.

The mercury will take another drop tonight to near the freezing mark and the cold will continue tomorrow, the official prediction stated.

The slide to the 45-degree line occurred within the past 24 hours.

171 ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Since its opening on July 1, the Berger hospital had admitted 117 patients, according to a report of Miss Marie Robertson. Patients have been treated a total of 691 days and receipts aggregate $2,295.02.

Four births have occurred at the hospital, two boys and two girls with seven deaths.

SCHOOL PAPER IS SUPPORTED

The Red and Black, Circleville high school publication which appears in The Herald each Saturday is given a good sendoff in The Watch Tower, Rock Island, Ind., student paper. An item in this paper says, "The Red and Black, Circleville, O., has a weekly page in The Circleville Herald, similar to ours. We're for you, Red and Black."

Plate glass windows were shattered for many blocks around and pedestrians were endangered by the collapse of several huge electrical signs, which were torn from nearby buildings.

An unidentified woman crossing the street more than a block from the Garment Capitol Building was probably fatally injured when she was struck by a heavy piece of glass.

Eyewitnesses said a sheet of flame bathed the street facade of the building as the blast rocked it. At Eighth and Los Angeles streets, half a block from the explosion, cogwheels and small springs from a complicated mechanism clattered to the pavement.

SUSPECT ARSON

According to Fire Inspectors Wolfe and Johnson of the arson squad the mechanism may have been parts of an infernal machine. The inspectors added they were investigating a theory that the building was bombed by disgruntled garment workers, who recently went out on strike.

They declared police have received numerous calls within the past week for protection of workers in the building. The calls came from the strike breakers, they said.

THINK VILLAGE THEFTS CLEARED

Ross-co officials believe thefts at the Clarksburg Motor Sales Co., last August and at the Evans Hardware Co., of Kingston in July have been cleared up through the arrest of Robert Alenmang and Joseph A. Stanna by Springfield authorities. Sheriff Fox of Ross-co has received information concerning the two men.

At Clarksburg 13 tires were stolen, and at Kingston 10 tires were reported missing.

NEW MEN OF THE HOUR IN GERMAN REICHSTAG

While the German Republic is passing through stormy political crisis, Adolf Hitler, leading 107 members of the Fascist Party in the Reichstag, warns that war debts are forcing Germany to turn Bolshevist. Above are pictured some of his principal lieutenants who are aiding Hitler in increasing European fears that Germany, through Fascist activities, may join Europe's family of dictators. MAL DAUGHERTY RECORDS DEBTS

Washington C. H. Banker
Owes $642,933.47 According To Report Filed.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Oct. 17.—The bankruptcy schedule of Mal S. Daugherty, who was president of the defunct Ohio State bank of Washington C. H., is on file here today with George G. Bitzer, referee in bankruptcy. The schedule lists liabilities aggregating $642,933.47 and assets amounting to $362,346.27.

Of the liabilities, Daugherty stated that $306,907.37 "should be paid by others." This amount included $37,702.37 in notes, $250,000 in bonds and $19,205 in accommodation notes which, he declared, he had signed as security.

At liberty under $40,000 bond, Daugherty awaits arraignment on indictments, embodying 57 counts, accusing him of criminal misconduct in connection with the affairs of the defunct bank.

ROTARIANS HEAR MUSIC PROGRAM

Four Singers Take Part In Enjoyable Entertainment
Thursday Noon.

Rotarians heard a musical program at their meeting Thursday noon when Howard Greeno, Mack Parrett, Jr., and Mary Pickens Mitchell at the piano, rendered a half hour program. With solos, duets and trios the musical program received hearty response from the members. Mr. Greeno and Mrs. Mitchell sang several of their popular selections that they have sung over the radio. Mr. Parrett sang several solos which were well received.

During the group singing, Miss Caroline Herrmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Herrmann, sang a number which was thoroughly enjoyed by the members.

Labor Demands 2.75 Beer Law

Vote of Feredation in Convention Today Is Unanimous, Report Says.

REPEAL OUSTED

Speaker Predicts Sentiment
Is Now Changing.

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service
Staff Correspondent.

CONVENTION HALL, BOSTON, Oct. 17.—With surprising speed, the American Federation of Labor convention today approved the recommendation of the executive committee for modification of the Volstead act to permit 2.75 per cent beer.

The vote was unanimous. The resolution which called for repeal of the Volstead act was voted down by the convention with only slight discussion on the floor. The resolution calling for repeal of the 18th amendment was also voted down with only a few negative votes.

Delegate Flore, president of the hotel employees union, one of the sponsors of the resolution, spoke from the floor in favor of the repeal proposal.

He predicted that in a few years the eighteenth amendment would be repealed "as public sentiment is changing."

"The present disgraceful conditions existing under the prohibition amendment cannot continue," said Flore.

Flore asserted that while "the convention was afraid now to take action on repeal" he believed that next year the labor representative would be forced to "face the facts."

The council's report adopted by the convention read in part as follows:

"The American Federation of Labor has repeatedly set forth in several conventions of the American Federation of Labor its attitude toward the failure of the Volstead act to promote true temperance. The developments of the last year, as shown in the evil social conditions which have followed failure of the enforcement of the Volstead act, have confirmed the position heretofore taken by the American Federation of Labor in favor of the modification of this act so as to provide for the manufacture, sale and distribution of beer containing 2.75 per cent alcohol by weight.

PICKAWAY CLUB PLANS BARBECUE

Plans are being made for a big barbecue at the Pickaway Country Club on Oct. 29 according to the committee in charge of the program for this day. An old-fashioned time is being arranged with the program beginning at 2 p. m. and continuing to 4 p. m. on Wednesday followed by a dance at the club in the evening.

Tickets went on sale today.

Mock Campaign Talks Feature Lutheran Meet

Campaign speeches filled the air at the meeting of the Lutheran Brotherhood Thursday when the members engaged in a campaign speech contest.

Elmer E. Wolf, Democratic candidate for sheriff was the first speaker and opened the meeting with a fiery, earnest plea for the election of a man that will fulfill the duties of the office and enforce the laws. Mr. Wolf laid emphasis on the reasons for his election and with his platform, strictly law enforcement and order, felt sure of victory.

Wolf was followed by the independent candidate, Wayne Hoover, who gave all the reasons why an independent should be elected over the Democratic and Republican candidates.

Then came the blare of the trumpets and the beating of the drums, when part of the American Legion Drum Corps led the way for the third candidate for sheriff, George C. Griffith. George solemnly tossed his hat in the ring and began his campaign speech. Griffith, a born speaker, gave the audience plenty of reasons why he should be elected and added much humor to his talk.

The candidates for Representative then took the platform with Karl Herrmann, Republican, the first speaker. He told of his qualifications for the office and promised to fulfill every wish of his constituents. Clyde Leist, Democratic candidate followed and he, too, was eager to do all that his electors asked of him and thoroughly explained why he was the better candidate.

Fulton Cryder, Republican candidate for commissioner, talked to the audience through station "OBC" and emphatically stressed the points for his election and his desire to curtail the unnecessary expenses that are so prevalent in the present administration. After his speech he distributed stogies to the Republicans.

Lee Shaner, Democratic candidate for Commissioner, did not arrive at the meeting to make his speech so lost out on the vote.

After the speeches a vote was taken on the best campaign speech and Elmer Wolfe was the winner, received more than half the votes cast.

The lunch committee, Charles Beck, chairman, served sandwiches pickles and coffee before the speech-making started.

MERCURY GOES FROM 60 MARK LESS THAN 45

Fine Rainfall Here For Four Hours Is First In Several Weeks' Time.

NORTHWEST HIT

Mississippi Farmers Fear For Crop Harvest.

The first cool weather of the fall season swept over Circleville and Pickaway-co Friday when temperature which at 6 a. m. was 60 had dropped to 45 degrees at noon and was gradually going down early in the afternoon according to Dr. H. R. Clark, county weather observer. Rain which started to fall at shortly before 8 a. m. Friday, continued until almost noon drenching the city and county with the first good rain in several weeks.

A continued drop in temperature until the freezing point is reached was predicted by weather authorities through central Ohio.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Temperatures in the sixties dropped to below the freezing point here late Thursday and early Friday with snow expected at any time, according to weathermen. Rainstorms were turned to sleet and highways and roads were glazed with ice.

NORTHWEST HIT

The storm came out of the northwest, first striking the Rocky Mountain district; then falling upon the upper Mississippi district. Chicago's thermometer bounded up 70 degrees then fell until near the freezing point during Thursday. Canada reports blizzard-blocked highways in numerous cities where a foot and one-half of snow fell. According to late news dispatches the cold is expected to last for three days.

The snow fell on Minnesota, melting then when temperature again fell covering the streets with ice.

Valparaiso, Ind., reports several hours of heavy rains which flooded streets in the city. Automobiles were unable to move on account of the floods.

The central Mississippi valley states were also struck. Farmers in the storm-ridden areas were fearful of their crops which have not yet been harvested.

By International News Service

The promised 'cold wave' struck Ohio today, calling out topcoats, in some places overcoats, and other warm wearing apparel, as the mercury took a toboggan ride down to the 45-degree mark, the lowest of the year so far.

It's honest and truly real football weather, in contrast to the excellent baseball temperatures which prevailed earlier in the week.

Southern Ohio cities were somewhat warmer with various cities reporting readings of 60 and 62 degrees. The cold weather is general throughout the state, officials of the United States weather bureau at Columbus said.

The mercury will take another drop tonight to near the freezing mark and the cold will continue tomorrow, the official prediction stated.

The slide to the 45-degree line occurred within the past 24 hours.

171 ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Since its opening on July 1, the Berger hospital had admitted 117 patients, according to a report of Miss Marie Robertson. Patients have been treated a total of 601 days and receipts aggregate $2,285.02.

Four births have occurred at the hospital, two boys and two girls with seven deaths.

KLEIN TO TRY TO STIMULATE FOREIGN MART

Assistant Secretary of Commerce To Make Tour of Europe Next Month.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—In an effort to stimulate America's foreign markets, to obtain information of the reaction of buyers abroad to the Smoot-Hawley tariff act and otherwise to study the commercial and industrial situation in Europe, Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, will leave for a tour of the continent the end of this month.

Officials said today the trip is of importance particularly in view of the serious slump that may knock a billion dollars or more off the value of American exports and imports during 1930.

Klein, it is expected, will attempt to inject new life into the government's foreign trade representatives and personally to seek new markets for American goods, and supply a greater outlet for this country's surplus production.

While undoubtedly this year will be one of the least productive for foreign trade since the reconstruction period, Klein has great hopes that in 1931 there may be a turn in world commercial affairs and that in 1931 there may be a turn in world commercial affairs and that in 1931 there may be a turn in world commercial affairs.

Since the enactment of the high rates of the Smoot-Hawley tariff there have been plenty of rumblings of retaliation from abroad. American officials have not taken any pains to minimize the possible effect of the Canadian countervailing tariff on this country's exports.

Klein, it was expected, would study foreign tariff reactions and would lay them before President Hoover and Secretary Lamont on his return. This might form a basis for action by the newly organized tariff commission under the flexible provisions of the tariff by which there would be certain modifications of rates should the European countries show a tendency to reciprocate.

The reported Italian-American commercial treaty under which this country would furnish capital for the development of Italian colonies in Africa and in turn obtain important commercial concessions in these rich territories may also be discussed by Klein on a visit to Rome.

It was thought that Klein would study the possible effect of the inter-empire trade conference to be held in London in which an effort will be made to keep business within the empire so far as possible. Because Canada and the United Kingdom are America's principal customers this trade conference will be of highest importance to the United States.

ALICE BRADY DENIES CHARGE

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 17.—Alice Brady, who was named in a petition for divorce filed in Detroit by the wife of her leading man, Donald C. McClelland, today indignantly denied that her relations with the actor were anything but "professional."

"Mr. McClelland is a charming gentleman and a good actor," said the actress, who is appearing here as leading lady in "Within Twenty-Four Hours." "I do not know Mrs. McClelland. My relations with Mr. McClelland have been only professional."

"And in our profession, traveling about the country, we try to maintain pleasant relations, of course, and in this company we have done just that."

"Either Mrs. McClelland is mistaken in naming me in her divorce action or the charge is an outrage upon me. All I can say is that there is not the slightest foundation for any charge. I cannot say anything else until I have seen a copy of the divorce petition with its specifications."

McClelland similarly denied the charge in the divorce petition.

"My only connection with Miss Brady has been a business one," he said, "and I regret exceedingly that she has been mentioned in the matter in any way."

The McClellands were married in March, 1929, and separated in November, 1929.

Miss Brady has been the guest star at the Erlanger theatre here for four weeks.

YOUTH TO FACE MURDER CHARGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A young man and a girl who gave their names as Arthur Shaw, 20, a musician and Miss Betty Goldstein, 19, and who said that their home was Cleveland, O., were being held here for investigation in connection with an accident Wednesday in which George Woods, 60, of Baltimore, Md., was killed. A technical charge of homicide and an additional charge of driving without a license were placed against the couple.

The youthful musician and the girl were taken into custody less than two hours after Woods died in a hospital here. Papers found in the dead man's pockets revealed that he had recently inherited the sum of $9,000.

Shaw insisted that he thought his machine had hit a traffic station and denied any knowledge of knowingly driving away after hitting the elderly man.

NEW YORK MEN TO GIVE WORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Prominent New York business leaders today headed a committee which will raise funds to provide wages for 10,000 idle men during the winter. The committee, known as the emergency employment committee, announced it planned to receive employment by providing $250 to the amount of possibly $250,000 weekly.

Unemployed heads of families will be first aided. A minimum wage of $15 weekly will be paid, it was planned.

Large donations from wealthy New Yorkers were expected. Two charity organizations will distribute the money.

SWANSON WILL ASK DIVORCE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 17.—The long anticipated divorce action of Gloria Swanson against her husband, the Marquis De La Falaise De La Coudraye, was said to be in the hands of her attorney today, and it is expected a complaint charging desertion will be filed within a few days.

Miss Swanson is said to have confided to a few intimate friends that the divorce action will be brought, just before she left for a short vacation.

It was generally believed by Miss Swanson's friends here that a divorce action loomed ever since her husband returned here from Europe last August. He took up his abode at a hotel and not at the Swanson home in Beverly Hills.

They were married in Paris in Jan. 1925. Since their marriage they have frequently been apart. The Marquis has spent much of his time abroad, because of business reasons or to comply with immigration laws.

Since returning here the Marquis has been seen frequently in the company of Constance Bennett, film actress. At the Mayfair party last Saturday night he was a member of Miss Bennett's party, while Miss Swanson entertained a group of her friends at another table.

POPE CONSENTS TO MARRIAGE

ROME, Oct. 17.—The final obstacle in the path of the marriage of King Boris of Bulgaria and Princess Giovanna of Italy appeared to have vanished today. Religious difficulties in regard to the union were solved with announcement from the Vatican that the pope had granted a dispensation allowing the marriage. The fact that the prospective bridegroom is member of the Greek orthodox church and the princess a Roman Catholic previously had proved a stumbling block in the arrangements.

The pontiff's action was predicated on a written pledge by King Boris that all children born of the marriage would, without exception, be brought up in the Catholic faith.

Plans for the festivities and the wedding ceremony on Oct. 25 were launched at once by the Italian court.

The marriage will take place in the basilica of the Cathedral of St. Peter. Special trains will carry the royal family and guests from Rome to Assisi on the evening of Oct. 24.

King Boris, who visited the royal Italian family at San Rossore over the week-end, returned to Sofia to arrange for the reception of his bride.

NEWMAN HURT AS BOAT EXPLODES

SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 17.—Harold Newman of Sandusky, was reported to be recovering today from severe burns he received last night when the small lake boat, the N-2735, owned by Newman's father, Captain John Newman, was destroyed by fire after a series of three explosions.

Newman and a companion, Russell Zeller of Sandusky, who were manning the craft, were rescued from the burning boat by coastguards from the Marblehead base, near where the explosion took place. The blasts occurred when 20 drums of gasoline were ignited in some unknown manner.

INSURANCE MAN REPORTED LOST

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—Mystery continued today to shroud the disappearance of Jacob E. Truitt, 27, insurance collector, who has been missing from his home here since last Monday.

An investigation begun by police yesterday failed to divulge any clues as to the man's fate or whereabouts. Police, however, still cling to the belief, today, that the man had been robbed and slain and that his body had been disposed of by his assailants.

Truitt was last seen Monday night at a Cleveland home where he had collected some money for his insurance company. A short time later his wallet and papers belonging to the insurance company were found strewn over the ground in an alley beside the house.

The missing man carried approximately $125 of his company's money when he left home Monday afternoon, according to his wife, Mrs. Alice Truitt. It was learned by police yesterday that Truitt had withdrawn a sum of $15 from his bank account on Saturday.

Police officials of Hickory N. C., Truitt's former home, were asked by Cleveland officials to aid in the search today. Truitt had spoken recently of making a trip to his hometown, his wife told police.

WOMAN HALTS
N. Y. TRAFFIC

With Shoe In Her Hand Car Driver Defies Part of Police Department.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—A determined woman armed only with a shoe snarled downtown traffic during the rush hour last night like no fire has done in recent months.

Mrs. Shirley Anita Ernst, 31, wife of the medical director of the employment compensation commission, parked her sedan abreast another car at 13th and F streets, the center of the congested district, and entered a music store. When she returned a policeman was waiting to take her to the station house for double-parking. "You'll take me nowhere," Mrs. Ernst said. "I'm due to sing over station WOL at 6 and if you want me in traffic court give me a ticket."

The officer insisted that she go to the lockup and, according to her statement, "attempted to drag me from the car."

Thereupon Mrs. Ernst closed all the windows of her machine; removed a slipper and held it in her right hand, and defied the policeman to enter her car. He didn't.

Crowds gathered. Other officers appeared. One attempted to lower one of the car windows and in so doing was bitten on the hand. He stopped. By this time traffic was halted on 13th-st.

The argument between the woman and the police lasted until the police patrol arrive with reserves—the latter to disperse the crowd and open traffic. Mrs. Ernst, with her shoe for protection, held her ground until her husband appeared. Finally an armistice was reached by which he and his wife would drive to the police station, the patrol and the police followed. There Mrs. Ernst was charged with double parking and was released upon payment of $5 collateral.

Raymond Davis son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Davis of Five Public will open a law office in the Lough News Building in Cleveland about Nov. 1.

Windowless Buildings

THE $1,500,000 windowless factory that is to be created in Fitchburg, Mass., may start a new style. Architects and engineers have been talking for years about such construction, but here is somebody actually doing it.

The plan sounds repellent at first. Yet it may prove satisfactory. Working conditions are expected to be better than is possible in a building of the usual type. There will be ample ventilation. The light will probably be better than can be obtained from windows, because it can be completely controlled. Sounds and sights not wanted can be shut out.

Most people might not want these latter benefits. They want to look out of the window and see what's going on. Yet these are less and less to look at in our cities, except from the upper stories of skyscrapers.

Imagine the increased efficiency that might be obtained in school houses and office buildings from eliminating windows. But we shall have to get used to that idea gradually. Human curiosity and sentimentality are stronger than the yearning for efficiency and concentration.

Some of our political candidates, too, would be safer with helium gas.

Share Our Helium

A rear admiral has come through with a fine, generous suggestion which government authorities should be quick to act upon. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, urges the free export of helium, of which this country now has a monopoly, to the British and Germans, who have had the vision and courage to carry on with rigid airships, despite disasters and the handicaps and danger of hydroplanes.

It is generally accepted that the crash of the R-101 would not have occurred if it had been a less frugal disaster if helium had been used in the construction of the lightly inflammable hydrogen gas. Most of the lives might have been saved.

Nothing is so common as to hear a man say that he is a "free thinker." He is a free thinker in the sense that he is free to think as he pleases. But he is not a free thinker in the sense that he is free to think as he pleases.

When the nations all succeed in keeping out other nations' people and goods, it is doubtful they will all be very rich and prosperous, but what will happen to the shipping interests? And won't seven perfectly good seas go to waste?

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

ON a cruise with her mother, Judith Archer, young school teacher, is attracted to Kit Camp, the ship's radio operator. Though pretty, Judy's charm is hidden by her eye-glasses and conservative style of dress. Visiting the Public Gardens, at Halifax, Judy hears shots as a scar-faced man dashes out of the shrubbery, followed by a dark, handsome man. Later, on board ship, Judy falls and breaks her glasses. Feeling a steady hand on her arm, she gazes into the laughing eyes of the handsome stranger of Public Gardens.

CHAPTER XIII.
"BUT I like it, Miss Archer. Oh—don't look so startled—your name is on your chair. I'll even confide mine if it will help." He chuckled, took a card from a leather case; she read "Mr. Tristram Millet," engraved on the white square.

"Tris' to my friends," he explained with a teasing grin. "Think you could manage to say 'Tris,' Miss Archer?"
"Well—" Judy was a-tingle with delight.
"You'd like some Outlines of History, perhaps? Well, then, I'm a native son—Chicago—twenty-eight nearly—thrown out of the best colleges—around the world a few times—been tramping through Canada—"

"Around the world?" she breathed. "You've been around the world?"

"Ah—that interests you! Don't tell me we're kindreds souls always flying to the far places? Too good to be true. . . . He got up quickly, walked to the rail, lingered there in the gathering dark.

Something wistful about him made her stare out to sea, something unapproachable, as if he were lost in an loneliness so vast that never might he find the way out—never might any find the way in to him.

Slender, long lines that made him look taller than he was and a way of moving with the lithe quickness of a cat. "Tired of being?" Judy's thought went as she watched him. "He'd like to forget his troubles. Oh, probably never fails at ease. What does he know about Halifax? Ask him this—find the beginning and end of that adventure. Only real one I'll ever have, no doubt."

He came back to her, bent down a little and his eyes flashed with a look of "fame." "Fame?" Judy's thought went as she watched him. "He'd like to forget his troubles. Oh, probably never fails at ease. What does he know about Halifax? Ask him this—find the beginning and end of that adventure. Only real one I'll ever have, no doubt."

topher. And I liked the sunset very much, thank you. We're dropping in for a dance now—come along." She flicked a quick glance at Tris and he nodded, held out a little paper package of cigarettes to Kit Camp.

"Yes, come along," he said easily. "Got aboard at Halifax—just starting to look around. Seems like a good crowd." He said this and grinned at Judy, a ripple crossing his face.

Kit Camp turned upon her a quick look, gave a half shrug.
"So that's how it stands," was what the shrug said. It sent the old antagonism tingling along her nerves.

"A lot of business it is of his arm. He flicked her a glance—snapped his lighter, held the flame to his cigarette.

"Just tramping about," he said evenly. "Came over to Halifax to catch the boat."

"Yes?" Kit Camp put it all down and Judy warmed to him when she saw the liking he felt for the other. Something glowing about this Tris Millet, something debonair and audacious that cut through the hospitality she had treasured against all his sex and warmed her in spite of herself.

A gawdy that buoyed the thought, sent fancies soaring on shining wings; charming—more than any that ever she had met before.

Yet her heart fell, a shadow seemed to steal across the light when Kit Camp waved airily, said he'd barge along. He was careless enough about it. Yet his green eyes darkened in their final glance. So winsome he was, so likeable small-boy! Judy wondered with a wrench if she had hurt him.

Then she was strolling in the ballroom with Tris Millet—walking

They were moving into the lounge when Kit Camp came down the companionway straight toward them.

ground," she thought. "Make as many friends as I please—as fast as I please—and don't you dare look that way at me. High handed, and superegoistic—just a bore—"

Now the two were talking to the waiter, paying no attention to the bright flash that ran from her throat to her hair.

"Want your library for my 'Radiogram'?" Kit Camp was saying, and he took out a cigarette and lit it, asking Tris questions.

"Sing or play? Rounding up talent for the concert we always give on the ship and Sunday night. . . . Home you for something and for general conversation that you will be a valuable addition to the party."

First, he thought, "I was never in two college girls. . . . More of a thought than a dream, but you asked for it."

"Fine! You've been in Halifax some time?"

Judy, her eyes on Tris, saw his face change. His eyebrows were raised, his mouth open, his eyes wide. He was looking at her with a look of surprise and interest.

Prevention Is Best Cure

Physical Examination for School Child May Arrest Budding Defects, Says Authority

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

IN most of our large cities and towns today health officials and educational authorities are cooperating in a movement for better health and greater public safety. In the past, the schools paid too little attention to teaching the child how to live. Vast progress is being made in these matters.

The correction of physical defects after careful physical examination is the right of every child. The school should keep a careful record of each child. There is greater certainty than that the physical defect will be remedied.

We shall have a better race gone and sanitation are made a part of every child's education. No boy or girl should go through life handicapped by physical defects and poor health. Many of these disabilities are curable.

Cleanliness of the body, care of the eyes, the teeth and all the organs are absolutely essential to good health and success in life. If, actually diseased, and, if they are obstructive, should be removed. A child cannot do justice to himself in his studies if he has infection from one or another source.

When your child complains of what you perhaps call "growing pains" the probability is that one of these hidden sources of infection is breeding rheumatism. With rheumatism comes heart weakness or infection of some kind. There are thousands of cases of so-called "rheumatic heart" among children from these causes. Some cases of heart disease discovered in later years can be traced back to childhood.

A complete physical examination of your child, either by the family or school physician, will determine whether the lungs and heart are in good condition. It will show, too, whether the child can exercise vigorously and normally, or whether care must be taken to save the heart from too violent activity.

"Athlete's Heart."

Only too often the athletic boy or girl abuses the heart until the muscles give way. Then there is developed the "athlete's heart." This may bring with it months or years of trouble from the weakened condition of this organ.

See that your child's new school shoes are comfortable and sensible. The rapidly growing child is using up great quantities of energy in school work and play. On this account the diet should be ample and carefully regulated. Regular habits of eating are important. Every precaution should be taken to direct the eating so as to prevent indigestion and at the same time to increase proper nourishment.

For these reasons see that your school child has a thorough physical examination. At the same time have me for yourself and all your family. It is by the prevention of disease and disease that good health is made sure.

Answers to Health Queries

C. P. Q.—What causes dark rings underneath the eyes and what can be done to get rid of them?
2—What causes itching of the toes and what will relieve the condition?
3—What would cause the gums to pain? The teeth have been removed.

A.—Constipation, lack of sleep, anemia are all apt to cause this symptom. A general examination will not only locate the cause, but will also suggest the necessary treatment.

2—Perspiration or eczema would be apt to cause the trouble in question. Bathing the feet in warm water to which a little powdered alum has been added should be generally helpful. If the itching is a rash or irritation see your doctor.

3—You may have caught cold. Have your dentist advise you.

A. M. K. Q.—What will remove tan caused by a violet ray machine?

A.—Will wear off in time, just a sunburn does.

Elections in Germany

Article 22 of the constitution of the German republic states that all national elections must be held on Sundays or public holidays. This provision guarantees the largest number of voters to take part in the elections and causes the least interruption of business. This practice is not new. National elections in Germany were held on Sundays and holidays under the imperial regime.

Presidential Mail

Generally employees in the Presidential office are designated to open the mail of the President. A special secretary can sign for and open mail addressed to the President of the United States.

Bank Cash Paradox

The paradox of a run on a bank is well expressed by the case of the man who inquired of his bank whether it had cash available for paying the amount of his deposit, saying: "If you can pay me, I don't want my money; if you can't, I do." All depositors want to be sure their money is there. Yet it never is there all at one time.

Theatres

AT THE MET

"The Jazz Cinderella," the new Chesterfield production, which was shown for the first time locally at the Met Theatre yesterday, will certainly appeal to the ladies. Not that the men won't like it, too—but this very male reviewer did—but we just know that ladies will never be able to resist the gorgeous display of fashions that provide the opening scenes of the picture. These settings are laid in the shop of a fashionable modiste, and the opening of the drama is played against the attractive background of the parade of models. And, ladies, if you are thinking about new clothes for the coming season, we can't advise you too strongly to look this over before you make your selection. Whether you want a bathing suit or a wedding gown, "The Jazz Cinderella," can well be your guide.

AT THE GRAND

Something new in Westerns—a talkie in which every inch of film was actually made "on location" at the exact scenes of the story along the Rio Virgin in southwestern Utah—opened to an enthusiastic audience yesterday at the Grand Theatre.

"The Arizona Kid" is the picture in question and it is a signal triumph for everyone concerned including the cast, the director and the author. Warner Baxter, who created history with his role of "The Cisco Kid" in "In Old Arizona," again, plays the dashing, debonair bandit, but in a story of wider sweep and against more spectacular backgrounds than the earlier film afforded and the captivating Mona Maris, the heroine of "Romance of Rio Grande" with this same leading man and director, has a role worthy of her unusual talents in the current production.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Gary Cooper, the lanky and handsome young man from Montana who scored heavily with audiences as "The Virginian" and "The Texan," heads the program at the Cliftona Theatre in "A Man From Wyoming"—which all serves to give additional proof that Cooper is a sterling actor no matter where his picture titles seem to have him coming from.

"A Man From Wyoming" is the story of a young engineer who hears the call to arms and leaves a construction job in Wyoming to get into the big fight in France. While stationed at a "hot" corner with his company of Engineers he meets a young society girl who, tiring of the tedium of her ambulance-driver job, wanders into the line in search of excitement.

It is generally accepted that the crash of the R-101 would not have occurred or would have been a less frightful disaster if helium had been used for inflation instead of the highly inflammable hydrogen gas. Most of the lives might have been saved.

It is said that the former justification for hoarding our output of helium gas is now gone. During the past few months there has been a considerable surplus above the needs of our own lighter-than-air craft. New sources of the gas have been discovered, and the potential supply is believed to be unlimited.

Nothing short of active warfare should make it necessary to keep this gas from other countries. Hoarding it for ourselves is inconsistent with the good will we profess toward the rest of the world.

When the nations all succeed in keeping out other nations' people and goods, no doubt they will all be very rich and exclusive, but what will happen to the shipping interests? And won't seven perfectly good seas go to waste?

AN UNSYMPATHETIC NEIGHBOR

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

ON a cruise with her mother, Judith Archer, young school teacher, is attracted to Kit Camp, the ship's radio operator. Though pretty, Judy's charm is hidden by her eye-glasses and conservative style of dress. Visiting the Public Gardens, at Halifax, Judy hears shots as a scar-faced man dashes out of the shrubbery, followed by a dark, handsome man. Later, on board ship, Judy falls and breaks her glasses. Feeling a steady hand on her arm, she gazes into the laughing eyes of the handsome stranger of Public Gardens.

CHAPTER XIII.
"UT I like it, Miss Archer. Oh—don't look so startled—your name is on your chair. I'll even chuckle mine if it will help?" He chuckled, took a card from a leather case; she read "Mr. Tristram Millet," engraved on the white square.
"Tris to my friends," he explained with a teasing grin. "Think you could manage to say 'Tris, Miss Archer?'"
"Well—" Judy was a-tingle with delight.
"You'd like some Outlines of History, perhaps? Well, then, I'm a native son—Chicago—twenty-eight nearly—thrown out of the best colleges—around the world a few times—been tramping through Canada—"

"Around the world?" she breathed. "You've been around the world?"
"Ah—that interests you! Don't tell me we're kindreds souls always flying to the far places? Too good to be true. He got up quickly, walked to the rail, lingered there in the gathering dark.
Something wistful about him as he stood gazing out to sea; something unapproachable, as if he were lost in a loneliness so vast that never might he find the way out—never might any find the way in to him.

Slender, long lines that made him look taller than he was and a way of moving with the lithe quickness of a cat. "Tired of things," Judy's thought went as she watched him. "He'd like to forget. . . Restless. Oh, probably never feels at ease. . . What does he know about Halifax? Ask him this—find the beginning and end of that adventure. Only real one I'll ever have, no doubt—"

He came back to her, bent down a little and his eyes flashed with a dark glow. "Dance? Orchestra's just gone. . . I've a feeling you like to dance, Miss Archer."
She got up at once, went loitering along the swaying deck with him, excitement wrapping her like a warm garment. "Friends have a name for me, too, Miss Puzzle-Person. They call me Judy."
"May I? Really? Bewitching! Why 'Puzzle-Person'? When all who run may read—"

"I'll tell you something," she laughed gaily, wondering what had happened to her tonight. Freedom—feather-soft lightness—why tonight she was the other Judy; tonight there was only blessed frivolity in all the world!

They were moving into the lounge when Kit Camp came down the companionway straight toward them. Judy flashed a merry hand—beckoned.
"Hunted all over Hades for you, Judy. You went ashore? Wanted to show you the sunset."
"Indeed you looked in the wrong place for me, Saint Christopher. And I liked the sunset very much, thank you. We're dropping in for a dance now—come along!" She flicked a quick glance at Tris and he nodded, held out a little paper package of cigarettes to Kit Camp.

"Yes, come along," he said easily. "Got aboard at Halifax—just starting to look around. Seems like a good crowd." He said this and grinned at Judy, a ripple crossing his face.

Kit Camp turned upon her a quick look, gave a half shrug.

"So that's how it stands," was what the shrug said. It sent the old antagonism tingling along her nerves.

his arm. He flicked her a glance—snapped his lighter, held the flame to his cigarette.

"Just tramping about," he said evenly. "Came over to Halifax to catch the boat."

"Yes?" Kit Camp put it all down and Judy warmed to him when she saw the liking he felt for the other. Something glowing about this Tris Millet; something debonaire and audacious that cut through the hospitality she had treasured against all his sex and warned her in spite of herself.

A gawd that buoyed the thought, sent fancies soaring on shining wings; charming—more than any that ever she had met before.

Yet her heart fell, a shadow seemed to steal across the light when Kit Camp waved airily, said he'd barge along. He was careless enough about it. Yet his green eyes darkened in their final glance. So winsome he was, so likeable small-boy! Judy wondered with a wrench if she had hurt him.

Then she was strolling into the ballroom with Tris Millet—walking yours," she thought. "Make as many friends as I please—as fast as I please—and don't you dare look that way at me. High handed and supercilious—just a he-creature after all, is what you are—"

Now the two were talking together, paying no attention to the bright flush that ran from her throat to her hair.

"Want your history for my 'Radiogram,'" Kit Camp was saying, and he took out a question blank and filled it in, asking Tris questions.

"Sing or play? Rounding up talent for the concert we always give on the second Sunday night. . . Hope you do something and feel generous; ones that are willing usually can't and others won't."

Tris laughed at this. "I was tenor in two college glees. . . More of a threat than a recommend, but you asked for it."

"Fine! You've been in Halifax some time?"

Judy, her eyes on Tris, saw his face change. His features seemed to sharpen, grow terribly alert; she shut out a hand and touched

Physical Examination for School Child May Arrest Budding Defects, Says Authority

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

IN most of our large cities and educational authorities are cooperating in a movement for better health and greater public safety. In the past, the schools paid too little attention to teaching the child how to live. Vast progress is being made in these matters.

The correction of physical defects, a feature of actual physical examination is the right of every child. The school should keep a careful record of each child. There is greater certainty then that the physical defect will be remedied.

We shall have a better race when such matters as personal hygiene and sanitation are made a part of every child's education. No boy or girl should go through life handicapped by physical defects and poor health. Many of these disabilities are curable.

Cleanliness of the body, care of the eyes, the teeth and all the organs are absolutely essential to good health and success in life. Tonsils if actually diseased, and adenoids, if they are obstructive, should be removed. A child cannot do justice to himself in his studies if he has infection from one or another source.

When your child complains of what you perhaps call "growing pains" the probability is that one of these hidden sources of infection is breeding rheumatism. With rheumatism comes heart weakness or infection of some kind. There are thousands of cases of so-called "rheumatic heart" among children from these causes. Some cases of heart disease discovered in later years can be traced back to childhood.

A complete physical examination of your child, either by the family doctor or a specialist, will determine whether the lungs and heart are in good condition. It will show, too, whether the child can exercise vigorously and normally, or whether he must be taken to the heart from too violent activity.

"Athlete's Heart."

Only too often the athletic boy or girl abuses the heart until the muscles give way. Then there is developed the "athlete's heart." This may bring with it months or years of trouble from the weakened condition of the organ.

See that your child's new school shoes are comfortable and sensible. They should be well-fitting. The rapidly growing child is using up great quantities of energy in school work and play. On this account the diet should be ample and carefully regulated. Regular habits of eating are important. Every precaution should be taken to direct the eating so as to prevent indigestion and at the same time to increase proper nourishment.

For these reasons see that your school child has a thorough physical examination. At the same time have me for your child and his family. It is by this prevention of sickness and disease that good health is made sure.

C. P. Q.—What causes dark rings under the eyes and what can be done to cure them?

2—What causes itching of the toes and what will relieve the condition?

3—What would cause the gums to pain? The teeth have been removed.

A.—Constipation, lack of sleep, anemia are all apt to cause this symptom. A general examination will not only locate the cause, but will also suggest the necessary treatment.

2—Perspiration or eczema would be apt to cause the trouble in question. Bathing the feet in warm water, to which a little borax or alum has been added should be generally helpful. If there is a rash or irritation see your doctor.

3—You may have caught cold. Have your dentist advise you.

A. M. K. Q.—What will remove tan caused by a violet ray machine?

A.—Will wear off in time, just as sunburn does.

Elections in Germany

Article 22 of the constitution of the German republic states that all national elections must be held on Sundays or public holidays. This provision enables the largest number of voters to take part in the elections and causes the least interruption of business. This practice is not new. National elections in Germany were held on Sundays and holidays under the imperial regime.

Bank Cash Paradox

The paradox of a run on a bank is well expressed by the case of the man who inquired of his bank whether it had cash available for paying the amount of his deposit, saying: "If you can pay me, I don't want my money; if you can't, I do." All depositors want to be sure their money "is there." Yet it never is there all at one time.

Theatres

AT THE MET

"The Jazz Cinderella," the new Chesterfield production, which was shown for the first time locally at the Met Theatre yesterday, will certainly appeal to the ladies. Not that the men won't like it, too—this very male reviewer did—but we just know that ladies will never be able to resist the gorgeous display of fashions that provide the opening scenes of the picture. These settings are laid in the shop of a fashionable modiste, and the opening of the drama is played against the attractive background of the parade of models. And, ladies, if you are thinking about new clothes for the coming season, we can't advise you too strongly to look this over before you make your selection. Whether you want a bathing suit or a wedding gown, "The Jazz Cinderella," can well be your guide.

AT THE GRAND

Something new in Westerns—a talkie in which every inch of film was actually made "on location" at the exact scenes of the story along the Rio Virgin in southwestern Utah—opened to an enthusiastic audience yesterday at the Grand Theatre.

"The Arizona Kid" is the picture in question and it is a signal triumph for everyone concerned including the cast, the director and the author. Warner Baxter, who created history with his role of "The Cisco Kid" in "In Old Arizona," again plays the dashing, debonaire bandit, but in a story of wider sweep and against more spectacular backgrounds than the earlier film afforded and the captivating Mona Maris, the heroine of "Romance of Rio Grande" with this same leading man and director, has a role worthy of her unusual talents in the current production.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Gary Cooper, the lanky and handsome young man from Montana who scored heavily with audiences as "The Virginian" and "The Texan," heads the program at the Cliftona Theatre in "A Man From Wyoming"—which all serves to give additional proof that Cooper is a sterling actor no matter where his picture titles seem to have him coming from.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—While national political leaders here are naturally more interested in the congressional aspects of the oncoming election than they are in purely state contests there are two notable exceptions to that rule—the governorship fights in New York and Pennsylvania.

The politicians' interest in these two battles might be said to exceed that of any senatorial or congressional fight, no matter how outstanding. The reason there-

Ohio Girl is Made Happy

MANY times a child has everything to make her happy and still is dissatisfied. This may not be the youngster's fault. Often it is due to a condition easily corrected.

Take the experience of Mrs. H. B. Hopson, 1119 East 88th St., Cleveland, who says: "Nothing seemed to please Leona Mae. She was fretful, fussy, suffered a lot from constipation.

"We saw California Fig Syrup advertised and got some. It relieved her trouble promptly; made her bright and happy again. We have used it for over a year."

Mothers by thousands praise this pure vegetable product. Children love it. Doctors recommend it to relieve constipation, feverishness, fretfulness, headaches; to open the bowels in colds or children's ailments.

Appetite is increased by the use of California Fig Syrup; breath is sweetened; coated tongue is cleared; digestion and assimilation are aided; weak bowels and stomach are strengthened.

For your protection, the genuine always bears the name California.

fore is not far to seek—it is 1932.

In New York the Republican party has gone wet after ten years of allegiance with the dries, nominating in Charles H. Tuttle a wet candidate upon a platform calling for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The Republican dries have bolted and put up a third ticket.

BOLT PINCHOT

In Pennsylvania, a large section of the Republican party has bolted the dry candidacy of Gifford Pinchot and served notice of its intention of supporting John M. Hemphill, who styles himself a Democratic-Liberal running on a platform that also calls for repeal of the 18th amendment.

Hence the Republican party in these two large and politically powerful states is split as it has not been since 1912. The same is more or less true of Massachusetts, where wet Republicans are bolting the dry senatorial candidacy of ex-Senator Wm. M. Butler. Should Tuttle be elected governor of New York in November, and Pinchot be defeated in Pennsylvania—which many shrewd observers believe possible—it probably means that the New York and Pennsylvania delegations will go to the Republican convention of 1932 prepared to battle for a wet plank in the national platform. The Republicans of New Jersey already are wet, in both candidate and platform. Massachusetts is teetering on the edge, and if Butler loses it probably means the bay state delegation would fall into line.

Thus, four of the largest and powerful states in the national convention of 1932 may be found lined up for prohibition reform. It may put President Hoover in a somewhat embarrassing position, if, as expected on all sides, he is a candidate to succeed himself.

TUTTLE STRONG

On the other hand, should Tuttle lose in New York and his defeat be traced to the votes taken away from him by the dry-independent Republican candidate, and should Pinchot triumph in Pennsylvania over the bolting wet Philadelphia machine, it probably would make President Hoover's convention pathway much easier traveling.

The dries could then triumphantly point out that they hold the balance of power in the Republican party of the east's most powerful states, and the wets could either take it or leave it.

Consequently, the election now only 19 days away is considered in Washington as much a wet-or-dry referendum within the Republican party in the east as it is anything else. It is of incalculable importance in all the figuring that is being done against 1932.

If the wets win in New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, they have already won in New Jersey—then it is assumed here that the convention delegations from these states cannot do otherwise than to battle in 1932 for the inclusion in the national platform of that year of a prohibition reform plank. To do otherwise

AVIATORS PLAN RETURN FLIGHT

LONDON, Oct. 17.—With a flight from Newfoundland to England to their credit, Capt. J. Errol Boyd and Lieutenant Harry P. Connor decided today to attempt a return dash over the same route.

"We have decided to attempt the return flight in November," the flyers said. "During full moon the weather should be favorable."

Presumably they will venture out over the ocean again in the monoplane Columbia which has two trans-Atlantic crossings to its credit.

The two fliers hopped from Harbor Grace, N. F., and came to a forced landing on the Sillly Islands, off the British coast. They flew to Crovden next day after repairing a clogged feed-pipe.

MORROW IS NOT A WET, HE SAYS

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 17.—Former Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, New Jersey candidate for the senate, does not want to be classified as a "wet."

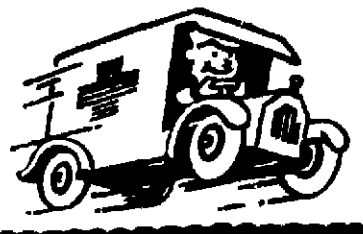

"Dwight W. Morrow's statement that he inclines to the Democratic party view that national prohibition is not an issue in the senatorial campaign should not be misunderstood. He fully recognizes the very keen interest in the subject and reiterates in no uncertain terms his intention to do everything in his power to bring about repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"In adopting this stand Mr. Morrow does not see any justification for classifying him as a "wet." He contends that liquor traffic is a problem of government that has not been solved by national prohibition. He recommends abolition of a proven failure and reversion to methods of state control which, after all, constitute the very foundation of this government. In Morrow's opinion this is the only logical first step to correct existing evils under the eighteenth amendment."

GOVERNORSHIP FIGHTS IN N. Y. AND PENN HOT.

Balance of Power In East May Rest With Wet Forces
After Fall Election.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—While national political leaders here are naturally more interested in the congressional aspects of the oncoming election than they are in purely state contests there are two notable exceptions to that rule—the governorship fights in New York and Pennsylvania.

The politicians' interest in these two battles might be said to exceed that of any senatorial or congressional fight, no matter how outstanding. The reason there-

Ohio Girl is Made Happy

MANY times a child has everything to make her happy and still is dissatisfied. This may not be the youngster's fault. Often it is due to a condition easily corrected.

Take the experience of Mrs. H. B. Hopson, 1419 East 88th St., Cleveland, who says: "Nothing seemed to please Leona Mae. She was fretful, feverish, suffered a lot from constipation."

"We saw California Fig Syrup advertised and got some. It relieved her trouble promptly; made her bright and happy again. We have used it for over a year."

Mothers by thousands praise this pure vegetable product. Children love it. Doctors recommend it to relieve constipation, feverishness, fretfulness, headaches; to open the bowels in colds or children's ailments.

Appetite is increased by the use of California Fig Syrup; breath is sweetened; coated tongue is cleared; digestion and assimilation are aided; weak bowels and stomach are strengthened.

For your protection, the genuine always bears the name California.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

fore is not far to seek—it is 1932.

In New York the Republican party has gone wet after ten years of allegiance with the dries, nominating in Charles H. Tuttle a wet candidate upon a platform calling for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The Republican dries have bolted and put up a third ticket.

BOLT PINCHOT
In Pennsylvania, a large section of the Republican party has bolted the dry candidacy of Gifford Pinchot and served notice of its intention of supporting John M. Hemphill, who styles himself a Democratic-Liberal running on a platform that also calls for repeal of the 18th amendment.

Hence the Republican party in these two large and politically powerful states is split as it has not been since 1912. The same is more or less true of Massachusetts, where wet Republicans are bolting the dry senatorial candidacy of ex-Senator Wm. M. Butler. Should Tuttle be elected governor of New York in November, and Pinchot be defeated in Pennsylvania—which many shrewd observers believe possible—it probably means that the New York and Pennsylvania delegations will go to the Republican convention of 1932 prepared to battle for a wet plank in the national platform. The Republicans of New Jersey already are wet, in both candidate and platform. Massachusetts is teetering on the edge, and if Butler loses it probably means the bay state delegation would fall into line.

Thus, four of the largest and powerful states in the national convention of 1932 may be found lined up for prohibition reform. It may put President Hoover in a somewhat embarrassing position, if, as expected on all sides, he is a candidate to succeed himself.

TUTTLE STRONG
On the other hand, should Tuttle lose in New York and his defeat be traced to the votes taken away from him by the dry-independent Republican candidate, and should Pinchot triumph in Pennsylvania over the bolting wet Philadelphia machine, it probably would make President Hoover's convention pathway much easier traveling.

The dries could then triumphantly point out that they hold the balance of power in the Republican party of the east's most powerful states, and the wets could either take it or leave it.

Consequently, the election now only 19 days away is considered in Washington as much a wet-or-dry referendum within the Republican party in the east as it is anything else. It is of incalculable importance in all the figuring that is being done against 1932.

If the wets win in New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts—they have already won in New Jersey—then it is assumed here that the convention delegations from these states cannot do otherwise than to battle in 1932 for the inclusion in the national platform of that year of a prohibition reform plank. To do otherwise would be the negotiation of their pledges at home, on which they won.

WATCH OUTCOME
He is awaiting, ostensibly, for the prohibition report of the Wickersham commission on law enforcement before saying anything with reference to the whole controversial matter. That report has now been postponed into the indefinite future. The commission has even decided to quit consideration of the subject until after the election, and the impression prevails here that the fourth of next March, which sees the death of the 71st Congress, will have come and gone before any report is forthcoming.

Midwest Draws Football Eyes

By GEORGE C. GALLATI
International News Service
Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Fourteen major football teams were drawn up for battle in the middle west today, awaiting a series of games which, besides four western conference clashes, includes three inter-sectional contests headlined by the all-important struggle between the Carnegie Tech eleven and Notre Dame.

A worried Knute Rockne was predicting dire things for his Notre Dame stalwarts when they meet the powerful Carnegie Tech team at the new South Bend stadium in a game that has drawn nation-wide interest.

No shock troops will greet Judge Walter Steffen's men from the east at tomorrow's kickoff, for Rockne is frankly worried over the early minute possibilities of the dashing Elyth, the plunges of Karcis and the passes of McCurdy, all veterans of Carnegie's backfield.

Although cold, crisp football weather has swept in from the western plains for the week-end contests, the weather still holds a threat of rain, source of another worry for Rockne, who would rather not pit his men against the heavier Carnegie eleven on a sloppy field.

WATCH SAVOLDI
Carnegie holds the precedent for Notre Dame victories in the past, but the Irish "luck" and heavy field generalship of Quarterback Carideo and Savoldi's plunging still obtain, causing the critics to take Rockne's predictions of a three-touchdown defeat with two grains of salt.

Injuries which have taken three backs and an end out for the season have failed to discourage Wisconsin's promising Cardinal eleven as it awaits the inter-sectional clash with Pennsylvania. A homecoming crowd of 40,000 is expected big things from the Badgers, who last week took Chicago into camp with its crushing line drives for a decisive victory.

Last workouts indicated that "Gloomy Glenn" Thistlethwaite will start his "power backfield" consisting of Goldenberg, Schneller, Behr and Reibholz. Rain, if it should come would be a factor in Wisconsin's favor.

The badly shattered Chicago squad meets Florida's Alligators in a game that should see the southerners the victors. Florida, with two victories to its credit, is the heavy favorite to whip the Stagg eleven. So pressing is Chicago's reserve problem that two handy men are being held out to be used only where the emergency is greatest.

OHIO FAVORED

Notwithstanding the fact that Michigan trounced the Purdue eleven last week Ohio State is a 7 to 5 favorite to defeat the Wolverine tomorrow. A crowd of 70,000 persons has gathered to witness the struggle, cool weather was setting about Columbus and promised good football weather instead of the heat that has prevailed. The starting of Wesley Fessler, star Ohio end, remains in doubt as his hand is still in a cast, otherwise both teams are practically intact.

The promising Northwestern Crusaders, now sudden and sore from injections of small-pox antitoxin will put up a heroic struggle against Robert Zuppk's University of Illinois eleven at Urbana, Ill. There was a growing note of confidence thereabouts today that Zuppk's team will make their 1930 big ten bow against the Wildcats with a smashing, upset victory, despite the green hue of the Illinois lineup.

Contrasted with the maculated Northwestern squad, Illinois is in splendid condition, its appetite sharpened by pre-season victories. Northwestern's lineup remains in doubt due to the men's condition and a last workout yesterday saw the Evanston team wearing heavy arm pads over their vaccinations.

At Minneapolis the newly-built aerial and ground attack of Minnesota's team will be used against the Gophers' first big ten game with Indiana as the foe. Built around Clint Riebh, elusive all-around halfback, the Gopher offensive that last week fought Stanford to a tie is expected to turn the Hoosier eleven back. Rain and snow which has turned Northrup field into a quagmire was looked on as a handicap to the overhead swings of Minnesota.

Purdue, defending champions, will attempt to break into the win column at Iowa City with Iowa as its foe. Purdue followers were worried over the fact that Jack White, veteran quarterback, will be out due to an injured shoulder. Having pointed for this game, he only big ten struggle on its schedule this year, Iowa is looked on to give the Boiler-makers a busy afternoon.

DENISON AND MIAMI MEET

Big Red Favored; Several Teams Play Throughout Ohio This Afternoon.

BY JOSEPH K. RUKENBROD

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17.—Eight members of the Buckeye state's large family of college football teams will play their games this afternoon. Interest of the fans undoubtedly, will center around the opening game of the Buckeye conference season at Granville where the lowly Denison eleven stacks up against Miami.

Miami is, by far, the favorite to cop the tilt Denison and the team from Oxford are old rivals. They had hot fights in the old days over their annual meetings, years and years before the Buckeye conference was formed. But Denison hasn't shown a thing so far this season and the bets are on the Big Red Miami boys.

Other games this afternoon will see Ashland and Marietta playing on the latter's field. Defiance and Bowling Green in their annual tilt at the Bee Gee town and Findlay and Toledo tangling at the Midway city.

Ashland should beat Marietta by several touchdowns. The Pioneers have one of the weakest outfits in years and Ashland, playing its first season as a member of the Western Conference, has one of the best.

The Defiance-Bowling Green tussle should be good. Both teams are at the top of the list in the Northwest conference standings. They opened their 1930 conference campaigns last week with victories over Bluffton and Toledo. Bowling Green, which has an excellent chance to cop the title again this year, has the edge but the Yellow Jackets have a lot of fight.

Another Northwest conference game is the Findlay-Toledo tilt, the first league game for Findlay. The Rockets don't have a chance, it is believed. But the game is more or less of a toss-up.

The eyes or the fans throughout the state will be focused on the Clark-co seat tonight when Heidelberg challenges the Fighting Lutherans of Wittenberg. The Student Princes, conquerors of Ohio Wesleyan and the Ohio State reserves, want to keep their state clean.

Wittenberg wants a win, too. The outcome of the game will depend on the breaks. The team that gets the breaks and turns them into the best things possible will be on the long end of the score at the final whistle. Wittenberg is undefeated, too, but two ties have besmirched the record of the Lutherans.

Heidelberg-Wittenberg rivalry was inaugurated way back in 1893, and the Princes from Tiffin have won only one of the 13 games.

NEW SENSATION FACES KAPLAN

Justo Suarez, Rapidly Coming Featherweight, Is Favored To Cop.

By HYPE IGOE

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Justo Suarez, the Buenos Aires buzzsaw, may run into a bit of ripsaw himself tonight when he faces Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion of the world.

It is generally conceded that Suarez will defeat Kaplan, but nobody will admit that squinteyed Latin is going to romp away with victory. He will know full well that he has been in a fracas, perhaps one of the busiest he will encounter in this country.

Kaplan is an old stager. He has had ten times the experience that Suarez has had and against the best of his weight in all the world.

I'm picking Suarez to win because I think he is much larger than the kid. He will have 5 to 6 on the little Connecticut boy and he can outreach him by many inches.

There is a fine opportunity for Kaplan to spill a lot of nicely prepared fries for Madison Square Garden. Folks would just be laughing.

So certain are Frank Bruen and Tom McCradle that the young Argentine will triumph over Kaplan and even Jimmy McClarnan, they have signed him for three fights next year.

He will enter the ring at least 2 to 1 over Kaplan. The odds may lengthen out to 3 to 1.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Aviation circles here watched with growing interest today the dramatic race developing between Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith and Flight Lieutenant C. W. Hill, both engaged in an attempt to lower the flying time from England to Australia.

Hill preceded the trans-Atlantic flier by several days in the hopoff, but Kingsford-Smith trailed close behind. Both of them at the present time appear likely to reduce the 15 1/2 day record set some years ago by Bert Hinkler.

Kingsford-Smith left Rangoon for Singapore today in his eighth day of flight, while Hill hopped off from Singapore for Sourabaya on his 12th day of flight.

Midwest Draws Football Eyes

By GEORGE C. GALLATI
International News Service
Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Fourteen major football teams were drawn up for battle in the middle west today, awaiting a series of games which, besides four western conference clashes, includes three inter-sectional contests headlined by the all-important struggle between the Carnegie Tech eleven and Notre Dame.

A worried Knute Rockne was predicting dire things for his Notre Dame stalwarts when they meet the powerful Carnegie Tech team at the new South Bend stadium in a game that has drawn nationwide interest.

No shock troops will greet Judge Walter Steffen's men from the east at tomorrow's kickoff, for Rockne is frankly worried over the early minute possibilities of the dashing Eyth, the plunges of Karcis and the passes of McCurdy, all veterans of Carnegie's backfield.

Although cold, crisp football weather has swept in from the western plains for the week-end contests, the weather still holds a threat of rain, source of another worry for Rockne, who would rather not pit his men against the heavier Carnegie eleven on a sloppy field.

WATCH SAVOLDI
Carnegie holds the precedent for Notre Dame victories in the past, but the Irish "luck" and heavy field generalship of Quarterback Carideo and Savoldi's plunging still obtain, causing the critics to take Rockne's predictions of a three-touchdown defeat with two grains of salt.

Injuries which have taken three backs and an end out for the season have failed to discourage Wisconsin's promising Cardinal eleven as it awaits the inter-sectional clash with Pennsylvania. A homecoming crowd of 40,000 is expected big things from the Badgers, who last week took Chicago into camp with its crushing line drives for a decisive victory.

Last workouts indicated that "Gloomy Glenn" Thistlethwaite will start his "power backfield" consisting of Goldenberg, Schneller, Behr and Rehholz. Rain, if it should come would be a factor in Wisconsin's favor.

The badly shattered Chicago squad meets Florida's Alligators in a game that should see the southern victors. Florida, with two victories to its credit, is the heavy favorite to whip the Stagg eleven. So pressing is Chicago's reserve problem that two handy men are being held out to be used only where the emergency is greatest.

OHIO FAVORED

Notwithstanding the fact that Michigan trounced the Purdue eleven last week Ohio State is a 7 to 5 favorite to defeat the Wolverine tomorrow. A crowd of 70,000 persons was gathered to witness the struggle, cool weather was settling about Columbus and promised good football weather instead of the heat that has prevailed. The starting of Wesley Fessler, star Ohio end, remains in doubt as his hand is still in a cast, otherwise both teams are practically intact.

The promising Northwestern Crusaders, now sodden and sore from injections of small-pox antitoxin will put up a heroic struggle against Robert Zuppke's University of Illinois eleven at Urbana, Ill. There was a growing note of confidence thereabouts today that Zuppke's team will make their 1930 big ten bow against the Wildcats with a smashing, upset victory, despite the green hue of the Illinois lineup.

Contrasted with the inoculated Northwestern squad, Illinois is in splendid condition, its appetite sharpened by pre-season victories. Northwestern's lineup remains in doubt due to the men's condition, and a last workout yesterday saw the Evanston team wearing heavy arm pads over their vaccinations.

At Minneapolis the newly-built aerial and ground attack of Minnesota's team will be used against the Gophers' first big ten game with Indiana as the foe. Built around Clint Riebh, elusive all-around halfback, the Gopher offensive that last week fought Stanford to a tie is expected to turn the Hoosier eleven back. Rain and snow which has turned Northrup field into a quagmire was looked on as a handicap to the overhead swings of Minnesota.

Purdue, defending champions, will attempt to break into the win column at Iowa City with Iowa as its foe. Purdue followers were worried over the fact that Jack White, veteran quarterback, will be out due to an injured shoulder. Having pointed for this game, the only big ten struggle on its schedule this year, Iowa is looked on to give the Bollermakers a busy afternoon.

DENISON AND MIAMI MEET

Big Red Favored; Several Teams Play Throughout Ohio This Afternoon.

BY JOSEPH K. RUKENBROD
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17.—Eight members of the Buckeye state's large family of college football teams will play their games this afternoon. Interest of the fans, undoubtedly, will center around the opening game of the Buckeye conference season at Granville where the lowly Denison eleven stacks up against Miami.

Miami is, by far, the favorite to cop the tilt. Denison and the team from Oxford are old rivals. They had fist fights in the old days over their annual meetings, years and years before the Buckeye conference was formed. But Denison hasn't shown a thing so far this season and the bets are on the Big Red Miami boys.

Other games this afternoon will see Ashland and Marietta playing on the latter's field, Defiance and Bowling Green in their annual tilt at the Bee Gee town and Findlay and Toledo tangling at the Midway city.

Ashland should beat Marietta by several touchdowns. The Pioneers have one of the weakest outfits in years and Ashland, playing its first season as a member of the Western Conference, has one of the best.

The Defiance-Bowling Green tussle should be good. Both teams are at the top of the list in the Northwest conference standings. They opened their 1930 conference campaigns last week with victories over Bluffton and Toledo. Bowling Green, which has an excellent chance to cop the title again this year, has the edge but the Yellow Jackets have a lot of fight.

Another Northwest conference game is the Findlay-Toledo tilt, the first league game for Findlay. The Rockets don't have a chance, it is believed. But the game is more or less of a toss-up.

The eyes of the fans throughout the state will be focused on the Clark-co seat tonight when Heidelberg challenges the Fighting Lutherans of Wittenberg. The Student Princes, conquerors of Ohio Wesleyan and the Ohio State reserves, want to keep their slate clean.

Wittenberg wants a win, too. The outcome of the game will depend on the breaks. The team that gets the breaks and turns them into the best things possible will be on the long end of the score at the final whistle. Wittenberg is undefeated, too, but two ties have besmirched the record of the Lutherans.

Heidelberg-Wittenberg rivalry was inaugurated way back in 1893, and the Princes from Tiffin have won only one of the 13 games.

NEW SENSATION FACES KAPLAN

Justo Suarez, Rapidly Coming Featherweight, Is Favored To Cop.

By HYPE IGEOE
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Justo Suarez, the Buenos Aires buzzsaw, may run into a bit of ripsaw himself tonight when he faces Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion of the world.

It is generally conceded that Suarez will defeat Kaplan, but nobody will admit that squinted Latin is going to romp away with victory. He will know full well that he has been in a fracas, perhaps one of the busiest he will encounter in this country.

Kaplan is an old stager. He has had ten times the experience that Suarez has had and against the best of his weight in all the world.

I'm picking Suarez to win because I think he is much larger than the kid. He will have 5 to 6 on the little Connecticut boy and he can outreach him by many inches.

There is a fine opportunity for Kaplan to spill a lot of nicely prepared frijoles for Madison Square Garden. Folks would just die laughing.

So certain are Frank Bruen and Tom McCradie that the young Argentine will triumph over Kaplan and even Jimmy McClarnin, they have signed him for three fights next year.

He will enter the ring at least 2 to 1 over Kaplan. The odds may lengthen out to 3 to 1.

IDENTIFY YOUTH AS COLUMBUSITE

DAYTON, O., Oct. 17.—The body of a 19-year-old youth who was killed by a train in the railroad yards here Oct. 9, had been identified today as that of Charles Nash, of Columbus. Identification was made last night by the youth's mother, Mrs. Loney Nash. Nash and a companion were en route to Columbus from Kentucky when the accident occurred.

SEN. COUZENS HAS OPERATION

DETROIT, Oct. 17.—United States Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, underwent an operation in Harper hospital here today for the removal of gall stones. Doctors reported his condition as excellent.

The senator, who has been confined in the hospital for about a week, will be forced to spend three more weeks there.

YOUNG STRIBLING BEGINS TRAINING

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Young Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, planned to start training today for his bout here next Thursday night against K. O. Christner.

Stribling arrived here yesterday from the south by plane, piloting his own ship. "Pa" and "Ma" Stribling accompanied him.

SMITH AND HILL RACE WATCHED

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Aviation circles here watched with growing interest today the dramatic race developing between Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith and Flight Lieutenant C. W. Hill, both engaged in an attempt to lower the flying time from England to Australia.

Hill preceded the trans-Atlantic flier by several days in the hopoff, but Kingsford-Smith trailed close behind. Both of them at the present time appear likely to reduce the 15 1-2 day record set some years ago by Bert Hinkler.

Kingsford-Smith left Rangoon for Singapore today in his eighth day of flight, while Hill hopped off from Singapore for Sourabaya on his 12th day of flight.

WITNESS FOR NYE SLUGGED

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 17.—Police are baffled in their investigation of the mysterious assault Wednesday upon James N. Cox, a witness in the hearing of the Nye Senatorial campaign fund investigating committee.

Cox was found in his room at a local hotel with a wide-gash across his throat. Suffering from loss of blood, he was taken unconscious to a hospital. It was reported at the hospital this morning that he had not regained consciousness, and that his condition was critical.

Cox, head of a Tennessee Telephone company, was one of the witnesses under subpoena to appear today at the Nye hearing, now in its second day.

Police admitted today that they had little or no information which might lead to the solution of the mystery, and said they had been unable to ascertain whether the throat wound was self-inflicted or not.

They were inclined, however, to follow the theory that Cox was wounded by assailants who gained entrance into the room.

Cox, unconscious from the time that police came on the scene, was unable to reveal the identity of the assailant or assailants, and police said they found nothing in the room that might give them a lead to the solution of the crime.

WITNESS FOR NYE SLUGGED

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 17.—Police are baffled in their investigation of the mysterious assault Wednesday upon James N. Cox, a witness in the hearing of the Nye Senatorial campaign fund investigating committee.

Cox was found in his room at a local hotel with a wide-gash across his throat. Suffering from loss of blood, he was taken unconscious to a hospital. It was reported at the hospital this morning that he had not regained consciousness, and that his condition was critical.

Cox, head of a Tennessee Telephone company, was one of the witnesses under subpoena to appear today at the Nye hearing, now in its second day.

Police admitted today that they had little or no information which might lead to the solution of the mystery, and said they had been unable to ascertain whether the throat wound was self-inflicted or not.

They were inclined, however, to follow the theory that Cox was wounded by assailants who gained entrance into the room.

Cox, unconscious from the time that police came on the scene, was unable to reveal the identity of the assailant or assailants, and police said they found nothing in the room that might give them a lead to the solution of the crime.
